THIS VOLUME

It is decidedly different.

It reflects perhaps more than any previous issue what alumni think about their Association and Alma Mater, its achievements and progress and what alumni as a group or individuals can do.

It may almost be considered an educational number bringing to alumni information on points that were not understood or known.

It is published with the hope that with a better knowledge of alumni activities that a greater number of Alumni will more promptly respond to the call for finances to support their association.

THE UNIVERSITY AND ITS ALUMNI

By President H S Boardman

In the evolution of educational institutions the alumni have always taken a more or less active interest in their Alma Mater. It is very noticeable that this interest has greatly increased in a constructive way during the past decade. Formerly the activities of the alumni of an institution were often considered by the administration as interference, and it must be acknowledged that this was too often true. Now, however, an intimate bond of co-operation between alumni and the administration is being universally developed, very much to the advantage of all.

It must be conceded that the Trustees, President, and Faculty of any institution are vitally concerned in its strengthening and upbuilding. Also that to the average alumnus his Alma Mater is very near and dear. His viewpoint, however, is likely to be quite different from that of those having direct charge of the institution unless he can in some way retain a close connection with it. Too often he judges the development of his college by the successes or failures in athletics or by some such indirect measure, and it is very natural that he should do so as this is likely to be the only connection between him and his institution.

The public and the press have been largely responsible for this attitude, in their demand for entertainment and the overemphasis of athletic heroes. President Lowell of Harvard recently said that it was his belief that the true end of athletics is the promotion of physical development and well being, and he deplored the excess of spectacular games. It is the excess to which such activities are carried that is criticised, not the fact that they exist, for nearly all educators are in sympathy with athletics and would not care to see a reaction which would result in their abolition. But, as President Lowell says further, "To devote attention almost wholly to intercollegiate teams is not more justified than to devote attention almost wholly to high scholars with comparatively little care for the rest of the student body."

The great body of alumni of various institutions are beginning to take notice of these and other criticisms and to ask very seriously whether the tail is not wagging the dog, and if so what is to be done about it. Athletics, however, is not the only subject under discussion by alumni. They have shown a keen interest in financial matters as well as in many intimate administration details. Their co-operation has been welcomed, for it has been recognized that when alumni interest themselves in a constructive way they form a powerful and valuable ally.

It is a great gratification to me that the alumni of Maine are showing this spirit of co-operation, and as President of my Alma Mater I welcome it and stand ready to use it for the best interests of the institution.

One of the most fruitful ways in which Maine alumni can be of assistance is by exerting their influence over the student body, in helping them to see the proper balance which should exist between work and play. A college education is supposed to so develop and enrich the mind that the young man or woman may be better equipped mentally not only to become a better citizen, and to appreciate the better things in life, but also to become a leader instead of a follower. The great criticism of the college youth of today is that they are paying more attention to sports and pleasure than to their education. Perhaps the criticism is too severe, but that they are open to some criticism is very evident. I have faith in the younger generation, and feel very strongly that they are coming out all right, but they need not only the advice and assistance of those under whose direction they come during their college work, but with their immaturity in their search for truth they need the additional advice which the great body of mature alumni can give.

Nearly all institutions make appeals to their alumni for financial assistance. Our Memorial Gymnasium Armory is an example of the way Maine Alumni have responded. We have many other needs which we can not expect the State to supply. This does not mean that the financial burden must come directly upon the alumni, but an untiring interest upon part should be the means whereby some of the many philanthropists of the day may become truly interested in us.

We do not seek to emulate the great universities of the nation in size or in wealth. We believe, however, that our Alma Mater is destined to become more and more a powerful factor in the educational and civic development of our State; but to best accomplish this we must have the active support of those who have passed thru our portals and who have received the benefits of the institution.

REFLECTIONS OF AN ALUMNUS

C P Weston, '96

If we stop and reflect a moment, as a woman does when she passes a mirror, we will surely be surprised at the variety of things memory mirrors for us out of the past that stretches back to the days when we too were freshmen, whether those days came in 1872 or in 1922, and if you have stood close by, as I have during those years, there is need to reflect a moment in order really to sense the changes those years have brought. As the Preacher, of the good old Bible times, might have said "One generation of students passeth away and another generation cometh, but the Faculty abideth forever. A President also ariseth and the President goeth down and hasteth to the place where he arose" and I as a member of the faculty have seen them come and go.

Christopher Columbus discovered America in 1492 and almost exactly four hundred years later I discovered the old Maine State College, which passed with the passing of President Fernald. Then came President Harris and the University of Maine, whose president now was a student then.

In those days the "Old Grad" was relatively young and his chief function seemed to be to return at commencement to tell lurid tales of the "good old days" and their "high old times." But thirty-five years have added experience and achievement so that the "Old Grad" now is a man of mature years and recognized accomplishment who realizes his indebtedness to his Alma Mater, and desires to discharge that obligation by participation in all the activities of the Alumni Association.

Uncle Ben's bus passed to make way for the electric cars, whose existence is now threatened by the automobiles streaming along the concrete highway, and the changes in the University and Campus have kept pace with the speeding transportation, so that the increased needs of the University demand increasing resources to take it forward into the airplane age that is to come. To further this end the loyal alumnus is urged to come back and to "come across."

Each dues letter costs anywhere from three to six cents each not including labor of mailing. Why not save your association that expense—answer the first call.

ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENTS

Harry E Sutton, '09

The outstanding achievement of the Alumni Association during the past few years has been the knitting together and fostering of Alumni spirit, the unification of Maine men. This has been accomplished largely through the efforts brought out in the gift of the Memorial gymnasium, the first large gift ever given by the Alumni to the University of Maine. The installation of the first Alumnus, as President of the Institution, has in a great measure awakened the interest of the Alumni and brought forth a unanimous, spontaneous expression of loyalty and backing of the Administration.

The Alumni Association through its council has initiated and revived interest in academic subjects and endeavored to place the ideals of the undergraduates and alumni upon a higher plane. This program contemplates the education of the undergraduate toward becoming an alumnus. While this work has been preliminary, it will develop and during the years to come will be of great benefit to the University.

During the past ten years, the Alumni have directed and in a large measure been responsible for the campus planning board, the securing of permanent campus architects, the laying out of the new campus, and arousing interest in the securing of new buildings. The result of this has been to rehabilitate the campus. It has aroused new interest in the University and is bringing back to Maine each year more and more of the Alumni. This result would not have been possible except with the close cooperation of the Board of Trustees and the President of the University.

The Alumni Association has kept in close touch with the Trustees and developed a better understanding, together with a close working arrangement with that Body.

The Association has encouraged and supported the movement "Back for Commencement," realizing that the interest of the alumni is developed through close contact with the University, and with this in mind class reunions and Alumni Day have been featured.

The Alumni office, financed and supported by the Alumni Association, furnishes you with your own personal representative upon the campus. The duties of the Alumni Secretary are many and his work covers a wide field. One of his important duties is to take care of the individual needs of the alumni, when they return to Orono. This office directs the work of the Alumni Association, through the various local associations, publishes the Alumnus and carries on the routine and field work of the Association.

During the last fifteen years there has been a continuity of purpose, a well directed and intelligent development of the association. This has been brought about largely through the work of the two Alumni Secretaries, Mr. W. D. Towne and Mr. Robert P. Clark. For the years ahead, I see great prospects and big developments under your new President's guidance. The Alumni Association will enact important and far reaching improvements. Toward this end let all Maine men pledge their best efforts, their loyalty and their full support.

FOR THIS YEAR—WHAT?

R. H. Fogler, '15

President Alumni Association

It is difficult for me to attempt to write anything in regard to the work of the Alumni Association during the coming year. Much better that the work be underway before a great deal is said about it.

Surely, everyone will agree that the biggest single task now facing the Association is to bring to a successful close the Memorial Fund Campaign, thus making it possible to complete the Gymnasium Armory. Much has been accomplished but much is yet to be done.

There is a great deal of other important work for the Association to do but it would be untimely for me to discuss, or even to suggest any detailed plans. A definite program cannot be adopted until after the first meeting of the Alumni Council which will not be held before late September. Just what the program will be, I, of course, do not know. I am sure, though, that I can promise that it will be constructive and that it will aim particularly toward the development of methods by which the Alumni body as individuals and through the officers of the Association can more readily and more effectively be of service to the University and to the State.

"WHY I PAY MY ALUMNI DUES"

By Edward E. Chase, '13

Chairman of Executive Committee

I pay my Alumni dues because I cherish the memory of college friendships and want to continue the associations formed during my college years. Obviously, the Alumni Association organization affords the only practical method for Maine men to keep in touch with one another.

I pay my Alumni dues because I recognize that the cost of a college education is more than the student pays for it, and that appreciation of that fact implies a recognition of the duty of working with and for the students who come after me. The Alumni Association is the best medium for coordinating the efforts of individuals of the Alumni.

I pay my Alumni dues because I want to see public recognition of the service the college has performed and appreciation of the public services it can perform in future. The Alumni Association has been and will be a strong force in securing the co-operation and support of the people of Maine.

I pay my Alumni dues promptly, when possible, because my experience as a member of the Alumni Council has proved that the officers of the Alumni Association are harassed by the financial problem of raising money enough to pay for the bare essentials of an alumni association, and that every member who pays promptly saves time which the officers can use in planning and doing useful work. The Alumni Association will never exert its potential force as long as its officers must continue this dreary dunning for dues.

Now after this intimate disclosure I shall be interested in hearing presently from other Alumni on the following subject: "How I feel after paying my Alumni dues."

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Why does our Alumni Association have two kinds of dues? is a question that is asked by many alumni, particularly the younger members of our organizations.

The answer is brief. It's a necessity. There has not been a year since a secretary was first employed in 1919 when the association could have "survived" financially without the sustaining membership dues.

Another question—does the payment of the larger amount bring greater privileges or service? No, positively no. It would not be for the best interest of our association to follow such a plan. We are all Alumni working together having a common interest and task—to forward our Alma Mater.

Which then shall it be for 1927-28—three or ten dollar dues?

If possible the latter. There is still urgent need of funds in order to adequately finance our alumni office and program.

For several years there has been need of improved addressing and filing equipment. This need becomes more acute each year as the number of alumni increases. The Alumni Secretary has found it necessary to refuse visits to local alumni associations because of lack of funds.

Surely with any alumnus it is not a question of shall I pay dues—but rather which shall it be.

Do your best—but do it now.

WHAT CAN ALUMNI DO FOR THE UNIVERSITY?

Having been in close touch with the University, the student body, and the great majority of the alumni since graduation, the writer realizes full well the difficulty of answering satisfactorily this query. Individually and collectively the alumni of the University of Maine are loyal to their Alma Mater, and want to be of real service in her progress and development.

While the University has passed her fiftieth anniversary, the greater part of the alumni are included in those classes graduating within the past twenty years. Before trying to determine what we can do for the University, let us give serious thought to what the University has done for us. The result of such thought should, and in most cases probably will disclose the fact that the University took us at a more or less uncouth stage of our life, and after four years of faithful training sent us forth prepared to take our places in the affairs of life. Much could be said and written on what our Alma Mater has done for us, but space does not permit. Each individual must arrive at his own conclusion on this subject.

If we can carry our thoughts back to our undergraduate days, we must realize that the one important thing lacking in student life is proper encouragement and assistance to enable the student to become acquainted with and acquire the proper regard and love for the University, and to prepare while in college to become true and loyal alumni. The records will show that the alumni who are giving real assistance to the University are those who as undergraduates did more than pass the grades fixed by their professors.

I am convinced that the alumni can through proper organization do a great work with the student body, in preparing the individuals to become alumni.

Our alumni are loyal, but are they giving the proper thought to the welfare of their Alma Mater? Are they unselfish when it is necessary to devote time and money to carry through some project for the betterment of the University? Are they willing to make a personal sacrifice to aid in strengthening the alumni organization and thereby attain and maintain a properly working force for the good of the University? Is each alumnus ready to become an alumnus in fact as well as in name only?

These are a few of many questions that each alumnus should consider seriously and answer to himself. True answers should awaken the proper interest and produce wonderful results.

The alumni group is rapidly increasing in numbers and we must have a strong organization, properly supported, both morally and financially, by every alumnus. Without such organization and support the alumni cannot hope to be in a position to render the greatest assistance to the University when most needed.

The University to-day is receiving from the people of the State more than ever before in her history. By giving the new building to the University the alumni created among the people of the State a more kindly feeling toward the University. Let us not forget that the work thus started cannot be completed until all the alumni participate in the contributions to meet the expense.

Now is the time for the alumni to awaken to the fact that in union there is strength, and that each should feel that he has an obligation to fulfill.

We are being called upon to contribute a small amount each year to maintain our organization, and to render aid to the University. If each alumnus meets his obligation to the alumni association through which all must function then the alumni aid to the University will be assured.

Yours for Maine,

Hosea B. Buck '93

ALUMNI AND ATHLETICS

The Athletic Board is unique in its make-up in that it is composed of one member of the Board of Trustees, three Alumni members, three Faculty members and four Student members.

The Trustees appoint their own representative. The Alumni Association elects its representatives for terms of three years; no two terms, however, expiring the same year. The Faculty members are appointed by the President of the University. The Student members are elected by the Student Body; one member from each of the three upper classes and the fourth is the President of the Student Athletic Association.

The Department of Athletics has exactly the same standing as any other department in the University; the Athletic Board acting as the head of the Department and having as its representative the Faculty Manager of Athletics, whose appointment is recommended by them and approved by the President of the University and by the Board of Trustees.

All actions of the Athletic Board are subject to the approval of the President of the University. The Faculty Manager carries out the mandates of the Athletic Board, having charge of the coaches, scheduling games, equipping teams, maintaining relations with other institutions, etc.

Our present Faculty Manager is deserving of much credit for the friendly relations in athletics that we now enjoy with other institutions. It is safe to say that no other institution in the country has cleaner athletics in all its branches than does the University of Maine today.

The finances of the Athletic Association are handled by the Treasurer of the University, who is appointed by the Trustees. Provided expenses do not exceed income the Treasurer does not interfere with the budget prepared by the Athletic Board. The funds are handled in the same manner as all University funds. Special records are filed in the Treasury Department so that each item in the Budget can be compared with actual expenditures and serve as a guide for the future. The Athletic Board is kept advised of the financial situation by a statement of affairs at each regular meeting.

As Alumni, you are taking great pride in the wonderful building in which our different teams train, namely the Memorial Gymnasium Armory Building. It is due in a great measure to this building that our teams are doing so well in athletics. One case in particular is the winning of the New England Intercollegiate Track Meet this year which is the first time the University of Maine has won this meet in twenty-seven years of competition.

The main objective in athletics at the University of Maine is the development of the man. Winning teams are desired, but above all we endeavor to instill the principle that the University comes ahead of personal glory, that the development of character and stamina is more to be desired than the mere winning of any event or series of games.

We believe that the high type men directing our athletics have demonstrated that we have a workable policy; that it is important to tie up athletics closely with the administration in order that the proper balance may be obtained.

Finally, you as Alumni, have a direct representation on the Athletic Board. Sometimes you may feel like complaining or finding fault. At such times will you take the matter up direct with your representatives rather than by fault finding among other Alumni? In this way errors may be corrected and we will all be working for that object which we most desire—the best interest of the University of Maine.

IT'S DUES TIME

THE FINANCE CAMPAIGN

A. L. Deering, '12
Chairman Finance Committee

Most Alumni I find know but little about the use made of dues paid to the Association.

Briefly, every cent collected goes to maintain this Association to which you belong and to employ an Alumni Secretary.

Not a copper is paid others for travel expense. None of the officers, members of the Executive Committee, or Council receive one cent in the way of expenses. This is true whether they live in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, or elsewhere. Whether they attend one meeting or a dozen, none have ever yet submitted a bill for a single item of expense.

In other words, those you elect to represent you give their time and services free—and pay their dues.

Now there are three things the Finance Committee hope to do to assist the Alumni Association. Each involves your active participation and support.

Our first effort will be to acquaint and impress you and the more than 6,000 other Alumni with the many activities of your organization.

We're starting off with this special issue of the Alumnus devoted largely to the work, value, and need of the Association. Properly informed, you are going to be a better supporter of it and of her interests. If you like this first attempt, or if you don't, let us know.

We are next going to try and secure the active and immediate participation of our Alumni body in financially supporting this Association. There are over 6,000 Alumni, every man and woman of whom should be paying sustaining membership dues of $10 or regular dues of $3, annually. It's not a duty, it's a privilege that Maine men and women everywhere should grasp. The amount you pay is insignificant today—it's merely a measure of your interest and a pledge of your support.

We're hoping you'll respond and at once, in order that the Association may be able to save expense and render greater service than ever before.

If we are successful in the first two then the last, that of raising $5950 in dues will automatically follow.

With your support and that of the Alumni body the Finance Committee hope to raise that amount. This is necessary to place the Association in a sound financial condition and in position to do many of those things we have long been anxious to undertake.

The active, whole-hearted, prompt support of every loyal Maine man and woman is solicited.

CLASS LOYALTY CONTEST STARTS

1926 vs. 1927

To the winner of the Class Loyalty Membership Contest will be awarded an attractive shield, scoring to be based upon the percent of members—both graduates and former students who pay alumni dues before January 1.

Such in brief is the nature of the new contest to be started this year by the General Alumni Association. It aims to encourage the prompt payment of dues among the younger members of the Alumni Association.

There has been a noticeable tendency of late years for a smaller percent of members of recent graduating classes to pay dues. It is with the hope that the habit of dues payment will be started immediately following the graduation of their class—that this contest is to be conducted.

The following conditions have been adopted:

1. The shield will be awarded to that graduating class, the highest percent of whose members, both graduate and non-graduate pay dues to the General Alumni Association by January 1 next, after graduation.

2. The prize shall be presented to a representative of the winning class, if any, at the Alumni Association Banquet.

3. The Association shall engrave on the shield the class numerals, percent membership secured and duration of record.

4. The prize shall remain in a conspicuous place in the alumni office.

5. This contest will be open this year to the class of 1926 as well as the class of 1927. Hereafter it shall be open only to the class graduating immediately prior to the opening of the membership campaign.

Should the contest prove successful it will be continued in the future and each graduating class will have an opportunity to better the previous record. Naturally the first record will be set by either 1926 or 1927 this year.

WANTED—A CASH BALANCE

As youngsters most of us heard—maybe learned—that little verse about little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean and our great big land.

So it is with this Alumni Association Treasury of ours. It takes a lot—a whole lot—of dues payments to keep some change in the cash register to pay a whole year's bills.

It's mighty tough to be a "stingy" treasurer. It is one thing to encourage proper expenditure of funds but quite another to say "it can't be done—no monies."

For a year or two we have had a taste of this latter condition. It has been necessary to borrow money to pay our bills for the reason that dues were slow coming in.

It is not a question of whether alumni will come thru—that we know—but how soon will the response come.

What's the answer?

Just this. Pay your alumni dues for 1927-28 when the first call comes. It saves your association expense. It puts the association on a sound financial basis so that those in charge can go ahead with a constructive program of service to Alumni and to the University. It changes the interest item from an expenditure to a receipt.

All together for a long, strong pull. It's dues time NOW.

UP FOR A SECOND OFFENSE

Maine alumni have been receiving letters, pamphlets and communications of all kinds during recent years from our finance committee. It would seem appropriate to explain just what this finance committee is.

In the first place our alumni association has to have money with which to function, maintain the alumni office and publish the Maine Alumnus. At the annual meeting of the association at Commencement a budget for the coming year is worked out and adopted. The money for this budget must come largely from alumni dues. Experience has shown that the collection of alumni dues is not the easiest job in the world and in recent years a special committee has been carefully chosen to plan and execute this work. This committee is known as the Finance Committee.

The finance committee from now on is to be an experienced committee as all members are to be appointed for three years, a new man being appointed annually and replacing a retiring member. The chairman is automatically the man longest on the committee.

Meetings of the finance committee are frequent. It is a hard and thankless assignment. A campaign has to be carefully planned and then carried out. Many circular letters have to be written.

The present committee is a veteran organization, all having served on previous finance committees. The association may well be thankful for the services of men like Arthur L. Deering '12, chairman; A. K. Gardner '10 and C. E. Crossland '17, this year's finance committee. Support them.

Dues are payable on the college year basis. Why not begin the year right?

What the Alumni Association does depends first, upon what alumni do—in dues.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

By Robert P. Clark, '15

Opinions differ as to the extent alumni should participate in University affairs. Different institutions have different traditions, purposes and ambitions. The alumni of any institution are of many opinions. Generally speaking, and in spite of some opposition, alumni are taking a more active part in the affairs of their Alma Maters every year. Their interests keep pace with their opportunities for service and cooperation. This interest is generally appreciated and frequently sought.

Wherein comes any danger from this alumni invasion? College alumni are mature. Individually, they are generally holders of responsible jobs. They are in many cases successful men of power, ability and integrity.

The General Alumni Association of the University of Maine has passed its infancy period. It has enjoyed several years of experiment and it has acquired a background of success and failure, both of which should be valuable in its work during the coming periods of youth and maturity.

Maine alumni individually and collectively have shown power, love and ability. The Memorial Fund drive is a conspicuous example. The Association now seeks to find out where it is going and why. It may exist without a purpose and a policy but it can never thrive and be the asset it should to Alma Mater.

Alumni interest has increased annually because:

1. They love their Alma Mater.
 2. They want it to succeed.
 3. They are ready to cooperate if shown how.
- Alumni should be active partners (silent too if you will) in University activities and interests. Too, they must have an up-to-date understanding of
1. The University of today.
 2. The student of today.
 3. The ever changing process of training.

4. The faculty and confidence in it.

Alumni should be taught where and how they can best help their Alma Mater. It would seem to be obvious that organized efforts to help would be most effective. Hence alumni organizations.

Alumni Associations are for two general purposes:

1. For the benefit of Alma Maters.
2. For the benefit of alumni themselves.

ALUMNI HISTORY SKETCHED

Something of the history of the General Alumni Association of the University of Maine might be of interest, therefore, the high lights are sketched here. This sketch properly refers chiefly to purposes and objectives; for with growth and maturity the need of a definite purpose has become paramount. History proves that any organization in order to justify itself and to exist long must have a definite purpose and continually strive for its accomplishment.

"A meeting of the graduates of the Maine State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts was holden in the Reception Rooms of Maine Hall, August 5th, 1875 for the purpose of organizing an Alumni Association." old records

The articles of Association adopted at the second annual meeting held August 1st, 1876 state:

"II The object of this Association is to promote the prosperity of the college and to foster among the graduates a sentiment of regard for each other and attachment to their Alma Mater."

In 1887 the Association became an incorporated society for educational purposes known as "The Alumni Association of the Maine State College." The objects of the organization were identical with those in the first articles of Association.

At the annual meeting held June 8, 1908 an amendment to the constitution was voted providing for an Alumni Council. Section 4 reads: "The purpose of the Alumni Advisory Council shall be to promote the interests of the University and in such other ways as may be possible."

The advisory council met annually at Commencement time.

An editorial in the first issue of ALUMNUS, October 1919, stated that "its functions were thus indefinite, and although it did give material aid in promoting interests of University, no publicity regarding its acts was made. Because of this lack it was criticised. Its meetings were held once a year. Matters concerning the alumni interests arose in the interval between annual meetings. Timely action was impossible."

A committee on the relation of local Alumni Associations to the General Association reported that there was great need of a paid Alumni Secretary to carry on such work. An executive Committee of five was provided for June 21, 1919. Also an Alumni Secretary was provided for at this meeting.

The functions of the Alumni Secretary's office as expressed in an advertisement in the MAINE ALUMNUS of October 1919 were as follows:

1. Publish free "THE MAINE ALUMNUS"
2. Locate and give latest news of your classmates.
3. Classify you correctly as to class, geographical location and business.
4. Furnish you with an Alumni Directory

5. Publish a War Service Register.
6. Aid you in finding employment.
7. Create new local associations.
8. Give you greatest Commencement in 1920.
9. Entertain and guide you when visiting the Campus.
10. Give you accurate information (about U of M).
11. Compare other colleges with U of M.
12. Secure representative newspaper publicity.

In 1920 some new functions of the Alumni Office are listed in the dues appeal.

1. To promote and assist class reunions.
2. To plan and execute the annual Maine Night celebrations.
3. To provide moving pictures.
4. To assist Class Secretaries.
5. To maintain an accurate address list.
6. To educate the under-graduates in their various student activities.
7. To educate the under-graduates in the true fundamentals of loyalty to Maine ideals and customs.
8. To prepare and maintain statistics on University affairs.
9. To assist in educating the people of Maine in the achievements of the State University.
10. To be ready at all times to swing the power of the alumni body as a whole or as local units, for the good of the University.

The Memorial Fund Drive held in 1923 and the subsequent problems of collecting the money and construction of the Indoor Field have offered a wide enough field of endeavor for our Alumni organization to date.

Special committees are now at work studying the problems of the present and the future. Maine alumni are keeping pace.

NEW ALUMNUS ON ATHLETIC BOARD

Clifton A. Hall, '10, of Bangor has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Wm. McC. Sawyer, '01, alumni member of the Athletic Board, by the officers of the Alumni Association.

Mr. Sawyer resigned as alumni member to represent the trustees on the board and now fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hosea Buck. Mr. Buck has been on the Athletic Board for years and his wise counsel and experience will be greatly missed on the Board.

It's not a new record the finance committee is after—but rather financial stability for the association—let each alumnus help.

WELCOME 1927 ALUMNI

THE MAINE ALUMNUS takes real pleasure in welcoming the nearly 500 members of the Class of 1927 into the association. We hope that all members of this class will be regular readers of this, their magazine.

You young men and women are our hope for a great future. On your shoulders will fall the burdens carried so well by that handful of old timers who have been loyal Maine alumni from fifty-five years down to a mere calendar year.

We believe you love Maine; cherish the old associations and wish your Alma Mater every success. Wishes get one nowhere however. Your hopes for Maine and your interest in her future must be backed by your active support.

Loyalty may be shown in many ways. We will not attempt to enumerate them all. Speak well of Maine, attend alumni gatherings when you can; come back for the big games, Maine Night and Commencement, and keep informed.

Your first move in loyalty however should be the payment of alumni dues. The alumni office represents you on the Campus. Your dues include your subscription to this magazine and you will surely want every issue.

THIS ISSUE—FINANCES

This issue of the Alumnus is a special and extra one put out by this year's finance committee and devoted to explanations of alumni affairs so that Maine alumni may be better informed. It is believed that the average alumnus will more eagerly support the association when he understands what it is all about.

The Class of 1927 is intentionally given prominence for all these alumni matters are new to them. Their personals monopolize the issue, but older alumni can read with interest what the latest graduates are doing.

Comment on this issue is requested. Remember it is an extra. The regular eight numbers will start in October.

PERSONALS

There will be some criticism because all the personals in this issue pertain to the Class of 1927. We regret that we could not print as many items about every class. Lack of space makes that impossible but we assure you that in the first regular issue (October) all classes will be well represented.

It seems expedient to carry as many 1927 items in this special issue as possible. The most of us have a general idea where our classmates and friends are but 1927 is just getting located and news concerning them is eagerly read. It is in this manner that the Maine Alumnus introduces itself to the newest members of our alumni association.

CLASS OF 1908

From all early reports there will be a large number of the members of the 1908 class return for the June 1928 Commencement. Acting Secretary E. N. Vickery has heard from many scattering members who are even now making plans for an Orono pilgrimage next June. Mr. Vickery knows for a fact that all class contests are as good as won right now, altho he hopes the other reunion classes will at least by uniting put up the semblance of a contest.

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES GIFT OF VALUABLE SPANISH BOOKS

The importance of Spanish studies at the University of Maine has received a signal recognition through the gift to the university library by the Hispanic Society of America of an almost complete list of its Spanish publications. The donation amounts to about 150 volumes and is conservatively valued at more than $700.00. The books comprise works on the fine arts, translations, biographies, literary history, critical editions, and especially the reproductions of manuscripts and early texts. While the larger number refer to Spain there are some dealing with Latin American subjects. They are of the greatest importance for investigations in almost any phase of Spanish studies. Especially noteworthy are the reproductions of the Catalog of the Library of Ferdinand Columbus and the Catalan romance of chivalry called Tirant lo Blanch in the Valencia edition of 1490. These two items alone are valued at $145.00.

The activities of the Hispanic Society have been made possible by the munificence of its founder and president, the distinguished scholar and noted Hispanophile, Mr. Archer M. Huntington of New York. For the past twenty-three years he has expended his vast fortune without stint to build up in New York a great library of Spanish and Portuguese works, paying at times, it is said, as much as $100,000 for a single collection in which he was interested. This library now possesses over 100,000 books and manuscripts and is constantly increasing. One of its most important functions has been the preparation of photographic facsimiles of manuscripts and early texts where perhaps only a single copy was known to be in existence.

It's hard to put over any constructive program without knowing whether there will be funds to pay the bills. Get the point?

CIRCULATION OF THE ALUMNUS

We have printed 6,800 copies of this special issue as there has not been time to cut down our mailing list. However commencing with the October issue this number will be cut to not over 6,500 copies. This means that many alumni will have to be dropped from our mailing list. This list was cut drastically last fall and the alumni dropped were those who never pay dues or contributed to the Memorial Fund.

The safe way to insure the receipt of the Alumnus is to pay your dues as your subscription is included therein.

TEST FOR GRADUATING CLASSES

The Alumni Association will provide a Silver Shield (or cup) to stimulate interest among graduating classes in securing a high per cent of their group as members of the Alumni Association. The following are the conditions (proposed)

1 The shield will be awarded to that graduating class the highest per cent of whose members both graduates and non-graduates are members of the Alumni Association on or before January 1 next, after graduation

2 The prize shall be presented to a representative of the winning class at the time of the annual Alumni Association Banquet

3. It shall remain the property of the class having the highest per cent membership in the Association until won by another.

4 The Association shall engrave on the shield the numerals and per cent membership secured of the classes winning this prize

5 It shall remain in a conspicuous place in the Alumni Secretary's Office

6 That this contest be open this year to the class of 1926 in competition with the class of 1927. Hereafter, it shall be open only to the class graduating immediately prior to the opening of the campaign

MEMORIAL FUND COLLECTIONS

Delinquent subscribers to the Memorial Fund living in Bangor and vicinity have recently been called on by workers for the fund who have tried to collect overdue money

This personal contact has brought in many hundreds of dollars but best of all it has enabled us to talk the situation over with the subscriber and to come to a better mutual understanding

An analysis of collections and costs will show whether or not a personal follow up of all in arrears should be made. At the present time men are covering Bar Harbor, Waterville and Augusta

The opportunity to pay dues is merely an opportunity to help discharge an obligation

* * * * *

Our best record was made in 1922-23 when 1,407 alumni paid dues. Surely we can beat that figure—if you pay your dues.

The Alumni Secretary and officers of the Association welcome suggestions from Alumni.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Football is king once more among college men everywhere. The season is underway at Maine and although a pre-game article on prospects can not be very dependable, news of the squad from which the team to represent the pale blue must be chosen seems timely

MOSFS NANIGIAN
Captain 1928 Varsity

The early camp at Bar Harbor was abandoned this year. Candidates for the varsity were invited to return to Orono during Freshman Week and starting September 12th a squad of from 32 to 50 men have been getting preliminary training on Alumni Field

Head coach Fred Brice, assisted by coaches Quinn and Kenyon are giving their men two workouts daily. Maine plays her first game October 1st against Rhode Island at Orono

While several letter men were lost to Maine by graduation last June more than an average number of veterans are back this year. The loss of Lamoreau at tackle, Simon at center and Dickson at guard leaves the most conspicuous holes for the coaches to fill

A veteran backfield is available composed of Osgood, quarterback, Pecks and Buzzell, halfbacks; and Coltart fullback. The problem here is to develop reserve strength

In the line Captain Nanigian and Black at ends, Minuitti, Beaker, Bishop, Lynch and Powell have all had varsity experience. There are three candidates for center. Men from last year's freshman team are all candidates for positions and some are sure to make the grade

It looks like another light, fast, fighting team like last years and the material available is of more than usual promise

THIS YEAR'S GOAL

The Finance Committee, after a careful study of the budget for the present fiscal year which ends June 30, 1928, has figured the minimum number of alumni who must pay alumni dues if income is to meet expenditures. The income of the alumni association is largely from dues. Other items, of which advertising is the leader, have to make up the remainder. The mark set for advertising this year is $1,000.00

The dues goal is

175 Sustaining Members at $10.00

1400 Regular Members at $3.00

The committee will bend every effort to the attainment of this goal and they want to do this before January 1st, 1928. There are hundreds of alumni who can be depended on to give continued support to their association. Their record is splendid. There are others who could and should join with them. A good record as an alumnus is a thing to take pride in. You are Maine men and women. You might as well be good ones.

Maine needs the co-operation of a strong alumni association. We can only be a strong association when enough alumni are loyal contributing members to give it the needed strength

Watch for letters from the finance committee. Read and heed them

FOOTBALL TICKETS

The alumni office is as usual at the service of Maine alumni in all things. For several years grandstand seats for varsity football games have been secured for alumni by the alumni secretary. This service will be continued this year.

Blanks to use in ordering tickets will be mailed out soon. Instructions thereon should be carefully followed as thousands of tickets are sold in the alumni office and the clearness of orders facilitates the service

Tickets are distributed as fairly as possible and no preference is shown—except to Maine alumni
